Office of Postdoctoral Education

Greetings!

Welcome to the University of Missouri. On behalf of the Offices of Graduate Studies and Postdoctoral Education and MU Postdoctoral Association (MUPA), we are thrilled that you have joined Mizzou as a postdoctoral scholar. Mizzou employs over 300 postdoctoral scholars in departments throughout campus. The majority of postdocs are in research positions; however, we have a number of postdocs whose primary responsibility is teaching.

We know much of your time will be dedicated to working closely with your mentors, but we hope that you will carve out time to engage with other postdocs on campus, take advantage of professional development opportunities sponsored by MUPA and the MU Graduate School, and enjoy living in Columbia. We want your training experience at Mizzou to be as rewarding as possible.

We hope that this handbook will give you a glimpse into postdoc life at Mizzou. Don't hesitate to contact the Office of Postdoctoral Education if you have any questions about resources available to you.

Best wishes,

Enid Schatz, PhD

Associate Dean, MU Graduate School

Assistant Vice Provost for Graduate and Postdoctoral Affairs

Office of Postdoctoral Education

The Office of Postdoctoral Education is housed within the Office of Graduate Studies and is responsible for the establishment of policies, benefits, and services available to postdoctoral scholars. We are invested in a productive postdoc experience.

- Establish a meeting schedule with your faculty mentor(s).
- Additional postdoctoral resources, professional development, and networking opportunities are available through the MU Postdoctoral Association \(MUPA\), Office of Postdoctoral Education, and the Graduate School's gradEssentials program. In addition to these campus resources, the University of Missouri is an institutional member of the National Postdoctoral Association \(NPA\) and the National Center for Faculty Development and Diversity \(NCFDD\).
- The Office of Postdoctoral Education maintains an email distribution list and it is updated monthly. If for any reason you do not receive emails from the Office of Postdoctoral Education, please contact the office at postdoc@missouri.edu.

Within first year:

- Filing your taxes: taxes that may be withheld from your pay checks by Mizzou include: 1) Federal and State income tax, and 2) FICA (Social Security & Medicare) tax. Visa holders: Tax residency and tax treaty exemptions may affect these taxes. Tax information is available from the Nonresident Tax Office at umsharerservicesu1@umsystem.edu

Getting to Columbia

Fly into Columbia

You can fly directly into the Columbia Regional Airport, just a short 15-minute drive south of the MU campus. Taxi service is available from the Columbia Airport to the MU campus. A one-way trip to campus from the Columbia airport will cost approximately $20. Lyft and Uber services are also available in Columbia.

Please Note: Starting October 10, 2018, if you have a driver's license or ID issued by the state of Missouri prior to the new ID policy change, you will need an alternate ID to fly. For more information visit <https://www.tsa.gov/>

Fly into St. Louis or Kansas City

Most people fly into either the Kansas City airport or the St. Louis airport. Each of these airports is located approximately 120 miles, or a two-hour drive, from Columbia. After getting off your plane, you should follow the signs to baggage claim to pick up your checked luggage. Most ground transportation services at both airports leave from just outside the baggage claim areas; look for signs to the appropriate transportation.

Ground transportation to Columbia

Here are some options for getting from the St. Louis or Kansas City airports to Columbia:

- Airport shuttle: You can use an airport shuttle (van service) to get to Columbia from St. Louis or Kansas City. MO-X, based in Columbia and serves the St. Louis and Kansas City airports. Check the website for schedules and prices.
- Bus service: Bus service to Columbia from both St. Louis and Kansas City is available on Greyhound. You will have to take a taxi or public transportation from the airport to the Greyhound bus station in both cities.
- Rental car: If you want to rent a car, you may be able to make arrangements in advance online.

Remember to ask the rental companies about what documents you will be required to show in order to rent and drive the car.

Living in Columbia

Columbia, MO., is known as an ideal college town, combining small-town comforts, community spirit and cost of living with big-city culture, activities and resources. Our city of about 120,612 people is located midway between Missouri's largest cities, St. Louis and Kansas City.

Columbia is home to an excellent public school system, and other colleges and educational centers. It's packed with restaurants and entertainment, and hosts more than a dozen annual cultural festivals. The city boasts multiple city parks as well as Rock Bridge State Park and the MKT Trail for hiking and bicycling. Columbia attracts residents from all over the world, and Columbians value and celebrate the diverse population.

The city is home to more than 100 places of worship, including a synagogue and an Islamic center, and counts many international grocery stores and restaurants among the diverse local businesses.

Discrimination and Harassment

MU Office for Civil Rights and Title IX

The Office for Civil Rights and Title IX coordinates non-discrimination and equity efforts across campus. MU policies prohibit discrimination and harassment based on:

- Race
- Color
- National origin
- Ancestry
- Religion
- Sexual orientation
- Gender identity
- Gender expression
- Age
- Genetic information
- Disability
- Protected veteran status
- Sex (including sexual assault, stalking, dating/intimate partner violence and pregnancy)

This office is responsible for enforcing the university's nondiscrimination policies, educating the community about MU policies and practices, and connecting people to resources that can support them if they experience discrimination or retaliation.

If you experience any form of discrimination or harassment, you can make a report to the Office for Civil Rights and Title IX. An investigator will then contact you to discuss your options and rights and can investigate whether university policies were violated. Your report is confidential, and it is up to you whether you wish to contact the police.

For additional information about how to make a report, see the Office for Civil Rights and Title IX website.

*Postdocs are academic appointments (except in a few rare cases) and should refer to the CRR (collected rules) for additional information about academic rights and responsibilities.

Benefit Information

All postdoctoral scholars are eligible to receive benefits, but the type of benefits package received is dictated by the nature of the relationship between the postdoctoral scholar and the university. Postdoctoral scholars can be considered as having either an employer–employee relationship with Mizzou or in rare cases, one that is educational.

Postdoctoral scholars who are paid salaries from Mizzou funds, including grants and contracts, and are classified as university employees and receive the same health, leave, educational assistance and retirement benefits as faculty and staff.

Postdoctoral scholars who cannot be considered salaried university employees because they receive stipend or salary support directly from a granting agency or a funding source that does not allow university employee status as a condition of the award, are eligible to receive benefits, but the benefits package differs in some respects from that of individuals who are salaried employees of the university. As applicable, it is the responsibility of the faculty mentor and/or department chair to ensure that resources are available from grants, departmental funds or other university sources to cover the university’s share of the costs for medical insurance before a postdoctoral trainee is accepted.

The University of Missouri System Faculty and Staff Benefits Handbook provides a comprehensive list of benefits available to postdoctoral trainees who are classified as employees. Details regarding benefits for stipend-funded and other non-employee postdocs are available from the Office of Postdoctoral Education in the Office of Graduate Studies.
